Fenton residents concerned over sewage

BY D. C. HARVILL

Residents of the Fenton community, east of Kiln, are concerned about sewage being discharged into Bayou LaTerre by a trailer park upstream from their homes.

Gene H. Bennett, owner of Pecan Park Trailer Park, has applied to the Mississippi Natural Resources Permit Board for reissuance of a permit to discharge "treated domestic wastewater" into an unnamed bayou which feeds into Bayou LaTerre, according to a public notice posted by the Permit Board.

Dr. Richard Walle and Kinta Maloney, both owners of property along the bayou, said they didn't know there was a sewage discharge into the bayou until someone brought to their attention the public notice displayed at the Kiln Post Office.

Bayou LaTerre as it flows through the Fenton area is more a creek than a bayou, its shallow water meandering past sand bars and high wooded banks.

Below Fenton it assumes more of the characteristics associated with its bayou designation and then flows into Rotten Bayou.

A variety of wildlife, including otters, wood ducks, soft-shelled turtles and deer, live in the bayou and the surrounding area.

LaTerre's waters don't always meander, however. Heavy rains often push its waters over the high wooded banks.

"We've had three floods this year over the second step," Maloney said. "Five years ago we had to gut the house and rebuild after a flood."

Maloney added that her house is 14 feet above the stream bed and another seven feet above that on pilings.

According to Walle, many residents of the area have wells in the flood zone. He is concerned that water, contaminated either by improperly treated discharge or flooded holding tanks, flowing over the well sites could pose a health hazard for those who rely on the wells for drinking water.

The sewage from the trailer park goes through a conventional oxidation lagoon system, like the one in Bay St. Louis except smaller, and is then chemically disinfected, according to Louis Crawford with the commercial wastewater section of the Bureau of Pollution Control.

The lagoon is located at the end of the drive that goes through the trailer park.

Karen Gilmore, a resident of the park for six months, whose trailer is nearest the lagoon said, "We've never had any problems, no smell." She said the lagoon had not flooded since she has lived there.

"If the top of the lagoon is above the level of a 100 year flood," Crawford said, "then it meets our standards."

The system is inspected on a regular basis and must be operated by a qualified operator, according to Crawford.

A draft of the permit specifies that the discharge shall not cause an accumulation of solids or sludges in the receiving stream. There shall be no discharge of floating solids or visible foam in other than trace amounts. The pH shall fall between 6.0 and 8.5, standard units, residual chlorine shall fall between 0.1 mg/l and 1.0 mg/l, and no sheen shall be visible on the receiving stream.

The draft disindicates that the person to whom the permit is issued is responsible for monitoring the discharge for flow rate, oxygen demand, suspended solids and bacteria levels, based on criteria set by the bureau. The permit does not, however, set monitoring requirements.

The bureau has neither the financial nor physical resources to conduct monitoring of all such treatment facilities in the state, according to Crawford.

"There is a terrible odor following a flood," Maloney said. "I've seen a lot of foam come through there." She added.

Persons swimming or commencing upon or object to the permit reissuance should contact Rodney Terry, Mississippi Natural Resources Permit Board, P.O. Box 10385, Jackson, MS 39209 or telephone (601) 961-5171.

Deadline for comment is June 1.

"We've done this," Maloney said, "to just to damn many streams in America ruined them."

Council to hear public on alcohol ordinance

BY D. C. HARVILL

The Bay St. Louis City Council will conduct a public hearing on an ordinance which Mayor Victor Franckiewicz feels was misrepresented by the media as a ban on alcohol in the city.

"There is a lot of bad information going around about the city's new open container/glass container ordinance, and the record needs to be set straight," the mayor said in a statement released Wednesday.

The hearing is scheduled in conjunction with a regular meeting of the council at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 7.

According to Franckiewicz, The Sea Coast Echo and The Sun-Herald "exaggerated" what Ordinance No. 320 does.

In response to the Echo's suggestion that due to vague wording, the ordinance could be interpreted as being applicable to the beach, Franckiewicz said, "The Echo incorrectly reported that the ordinance applies to the beach. The word 'beach' isn't mentioned anywhere in the ordinance."

"The ordinance does not apply to the beach or seawall," Franckiewicz said.

The ordinance also allows drinking at organized activities such as softball tournaments, according to Franckiewicz.

"The ordinance is an important public safety measure. It was passed in response to a number of situations where uncontrolled drinking on the streets turned into violence, the mayor explained.

The hearing will be held, Franckiewicz said, "Because there is so much controversy and misunderstanding... I hope we can get some public input to improve the situation."

Following is the full text of the mayor's statement:

First fire subdistrict rated '9'

BY DENA BISNETTE

For the first time in Mississippi, a subdistrict has been created within an existing fire protection district to reduce insurance costs to residents.

That subdistrict is part of the East Hancock Fire Protection District, and efforts to create it were spearheaded by a resident who felt his insurance bill had increased too much.

Chris Steiner said he started work on the subdistrict in December because he was "mad about insurance."

"I live in a Jim Walter home and it went up to $1400," he explained.

After several months of research with the assistance of Hancock County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh and State Insurance Commissioner George Dale, the subdistrict has an insurance rating of nine.

The scale of fire insurance ratings begins at 10 for areas with a volunteer fire department only and goes down as certain factors improve, including the fire department's equipment, training, type of trucks, water supplies and area road conditions.

According to state regulations for fire districts, a rating of nine requires "a water system having at least 50,000 gallons elevated storage and a well supply capable of maintaining the tank full during periods of peak or maximum domestic consumption."

The water distribution system should consist of six-inch and larger mains (four-inch recognized but not recommended) having properly located standard public fire hydrants and sectional gate valves.

The regulations also state that any property other than dwellings needs to be within 300 feet automobile travel distance from a standard public fire hydrant.

Steiner said the new subdistrict could not have qualified under those regulations, but was able to qualify for a class nine rating under a new clause allowing an alternative water supply.

The new clause, inserted last year, states, "As an alternative to the above, fire protection may be provided by a system utilizing carried water from continuously available sources having

Homebuilt plane leaves garage after 11 years

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Ninth Annual Gulf Coast Fly-in and Airshow will feature a number of experimental aircraft and home-built airplanes, including the one that stayed in Martin Fagot's garage in Bay St. Louis for 11 years.

The plane is a VariEze, a two-seater plane with a fiberglass body, rear engine and a rear propeller known as a pusher.

"The main appeal of the plane for me was the speed, range and unusual design," he said.

The plane does have an unusual look due to its canard, a 12-foot front wing, Fagot said. He explained that the canard helps to stabilize the plane, which does not stall like a conventional plane and instead "porpoises up and down" until it adjusts itself to a normal flying position.

The VariEze is about 17 feet long with a 12-foot wingspan. The wings, like the canard, come off for easy transport.

Fagot said he built the plane from a kit designed by Dick Rutan, who designed the Voyager plane, and now bases it at Stennis Airport.

The kit contained fiberglass foam and sheets to make the plane body and the 85-horsepower engine and some of the mechanical parts had to be bought separately. Fagot also built a radio for the aircraft from another kit.

The whole aircraft weighs about 690 pounds without fuel or a pilot in it.

"Fiberglass construction is very strong and lightweight," he explained.

The VariEze is also unusual because its nose gear retracts and it must be hand-propelled from behind because it has no starter. On the ground, the vehicle will fall back onto its tail if the pilot tries to get inside without retracting the nose gear.

However, once in the air it can fly about 135 knots, or 160 miles per hour and can go about 600 miles before it needs refueling.

Fagot has logged about 35 flying hours on this particular plane, which qualifies with the Federal Aviation Administration as an experimental aircraft, a category established mainly for its educational benefits.

After spending roughly 11 years building the plane, with the exception of about 18 months he used to restore a 1951 Chevrolet pick-up truck that will also be displayed at the airshow, Fagot said he prefers Stennis, and plans to take his plane to various airshows and fly-ins.

The airshow will be May 28 and 29 at Stennis and is sponsored by EAA Chapter 479. Displays will be available for viewing from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

each day and will include some antique cars and trucks as well. The planes will be of all types, including experimental, antique, classic, and military aircraft. More information can be obtained from Fagot at 467-4539.

The plane's fuselage is only one foot longer than Fagot's vintage Chevrolet pick-up truck, which measures 16 feet.

The builder said he is glad he has finally finished the aircraft and has it in good flying condition.

"For the first time in 11 years, my wife can get the car into the garage," he explained.

Fagot works as an electrical/ocean engineer at NORDA at John C. Stennis Space Center, formerly National Space Technology Laboratories.

He has had a pilot's license since 1963 and brought a Piper Cherokee with him when he moved to Bay St. Louis from Fredericksburg, Va., in 1973.

Shortly thereafter, he sold the Piper and began working on the VariEze because he had always been interested in building things.

"My kids have grown up with this plane," he said. His children, Christine and Daniel, were two and four years old, respectively, when he started the project.

"I need to thank all of them for their patience," he to have fun with the VariEze for a while rather than trying to build another.

He said he had not flown in about 10 years before completing the VariEze and found that the aircraft is definitely not one novice flyer should try.

He described taxiing the plane along the ground and then flying it only a few feet above the runway to become used to it before taking it into the air.

"It's very particular as far as the initial flying...It's sort of the sports car of the homebuilding community," he added.

He added that although he took more than a decade to build his VariEze and had never worked with fiberglass foam, before, it is not difficult to do and the plane could be built in less than one year if the builder works on it full-time.

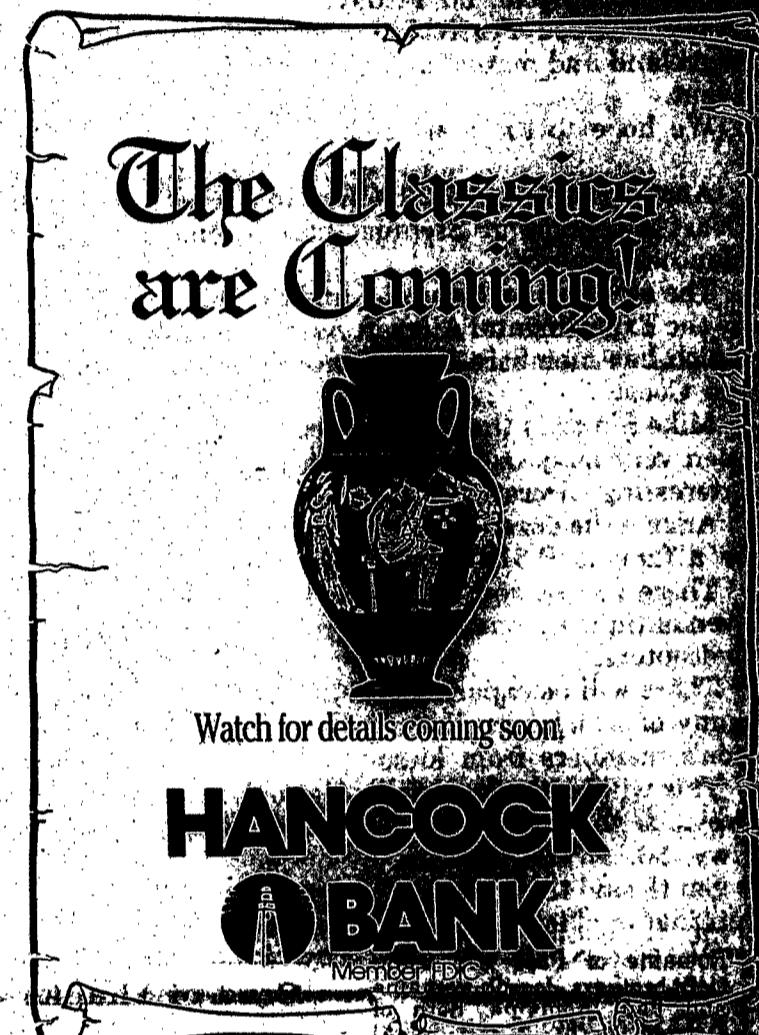

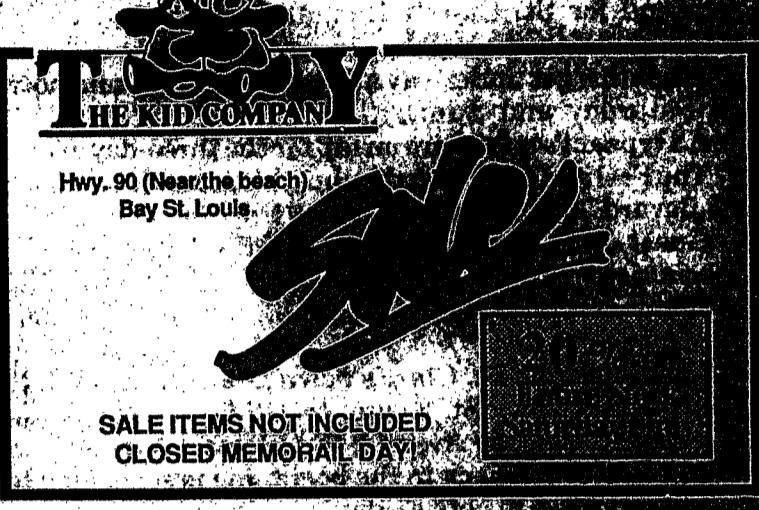

Fagot explained that he serves as treasurer for Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 479, which is based at Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be the big weekend for St. Clare's Annual Seafood Festival in Waveland.

Activities get underway at 6 p.m. on Friday and noon on Saturday and Sunday.

All types of seafood are on tap for the three-day event.

The Festival will be on the church's grounds on Beach Boulevard and Vacation Lane.

Guest chefs from along the Coast will be doing the specialties.

We understand the chefs are already getting their specialties ready.

A parade from St. Clare's down Beach Boulevard to Main Street, Bay St. Louis, to US-90, to Nicholson Avenue, to Central Avenue, to Coleman Avenue and Beach Boulevard back to the beginning is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. on Friday.

The Seafood Festival is becoming a tradition in Waveland and many folks look forward to the annual event.

We hope to see you at the festival.

Another big event in the area this week is the Gulf Coast Air Show at Stennis International Airport in Hancock County.

The air show on Saturday and Sunday is sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 479, which has members from Hancock County and along the Coast.

Mike Smith is the Air Show coordinator and he has been very busy in recent weeks lining up some very interesting aircraft.

Among the dozen or so antique military aircraft will be a famous P-51 fighter.

There will be radio-controlled model airplanes and even antique automobiles and flying machines such as helicopters.

There will be experimental aircraft at the air show, many of which have been assembled by the association's members from kits.

This will be the local organization's ninth air show. Previous shows took place on a small grass strip on Hwy. 53.

Smith said they outgrew the small strip and Stennis International is ideal for such a show because they will now be able to have planes as large as the United States C-141 which is scheduled for this weekend.

The Operations Building of the Experimental Aircraft Association Chapter 479 is located at Stennis International Airport.

Festivities get underway at 9 a.m. both days with activities throughout the day.

Persons needing further information on the air show or interested in the organization may call Smith at 467-7687.

There will be a donation of $3 for adults and $1 for children.

We hope to see you at the Gulf Coast Air Show.

This is Memorial Day weekend, so our highways and roadways will be bumper-to-bumper with traffic.

We hope everyone will drive with care and if you drink, please do not drive.

We hope everyone will have a safe and happy Memorial Day weekend.

Sewerage charge for garden water unfair

To the Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Dear Editor:

At the risk of keeping my mouth motor running, I would like once again to address what seems to me an unfair billing in our Bay St. Louis City Utilities System.

Water is necessary for life, second in importance only to the air we breath.

Pay that water bill promptly and thankfully and also gratefully. Without water there would be no dish-washers, laundry facilities, and flush toilets.

There would be no swimming pools, lawn sprinklers, and dozens of other water related considerations we have become to accustomed to expect.

I have said it so frequently that it is almost as repetitious as "Poly wants a crack" — there is a charge, unfair I think, in billing sewage service.

That is for water used in maintaining lawns, plants, small gardens, car washing or other outdoor uses. This water when used does not flow through the system.

The City of Bay St. Louis should, in my opinion, encourage a beautification program—not just to attract tourist—but also to attract permanent residents. What more pleasing approach and appeal than "The little city of natural beauty?"

Natural beauty means water for shrubs, grass, plant life—all of which does not go in the sewage system but is paid for!

The question comes to mind: Do we need two meters to tell us what is actually going into the sewage system? Or do we pro-rate water-sewage related billing to months when there was little if any sewage water required? Somebody out there might have an answer. The City of Fairfax, Va. did. The did it and they are glad.

Sincerely, Joe Pilet

Airports, schools not compatible neighbors

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis Dear Sir
Reference School Board

plans to build a high school in the vicinity of Stennis International Airport.

No one has asked by opinion, and it's apparent to me that the "decision makers" didn't ask for opinion(s) from many qualified individuals. One of the basic precepts that I learned in aviation facilities planning and airport operations and management many years ago, is that you just don't build airports to establish airport traffic patterns in the vicinity of a school.

The reverse is also true—you just don't build a school near an airport or within its traffic pattern due to aircraft taking off, landing, practicing simulated instrument approaches to low level altitudes, etc., etc.—in addition to the noise levels created by aircraft operations in the immediate vicinity.

Like I said, no one asked by opinion, but the property in and around Stennis International Airport should be reserved for the development of this valuable county resource—and the County High School put in a location and environment which is conducive to providing quality education for the children of our community.

It would be nice if our elected leaders would re-think their decision in favor of the children and their future.

Sincerely,
Randolph C Bourgeois

Patrol's Operation Saturation removes 65 DUI's from highways

Weekend enforcement efforts by the Mississippi Highway Patrol resulted in 2,352 citations being written Friday and Saturday nights at driver's license checkpoints in Hattiesburg and Tupelo.

The most important result of these two checkpoints is that 65 drunken or drugged drivers were removed from the highways," Col. David Huggins, chief of the Highway Patrol.

"We know that locking up a drunk removes a potential fatality producer from our highways," Huggins said.

Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, assistant chief of patrol, said 69 drivers were cited for driving while their licenses were under suspension by the Highway Patrol.

"People caught driving while their license is under suspension due to a driving under the influence (DUI) of drugs or alcohol conviction are usually taken to jail," Hughes said.

"Some people may think that taking a person to jail for driving with a suspended license is a harsh approach. We take the position that the person's license was originally suspended because they were convicted of DUI."

"The suspension is part of the penalty of a DUI conviction. To allow the license holder to drive when his privilege to do so has been suspended, due to a DUI conviction, dilutes the effectiveness of the DUI laws," Hughes said.

Hattiesburg and Tupelo were the first sites for beefed-up enforcement by the Highway Patrol during a program called Operation Saturation.

"This project will continue indefinitely. From time to time we plan to 'saturate' different areas of the state with enforcement troopers in an effort to target the drunken or drugged driver," Hughes added.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—After almost a half century of being controlled by powerful speakers and a palace guard of loyal lieutenants, Mississippi's House has just gone through its first experience of being led by a mild-mannered speaker and a team of idealistic reformers.

The verdict here after their first legislative session is that Speaker Tim Ford and the new House leadership have proved that they can make a more democratic system work.

Things didn't always go smoothly, far from it. And the democratic reformers were not always that democratic. And some in new-found positions of influence did not quite measure up to the job.

But there was in the House a fresh new air of openness and a desire to tackle some controversial issues long swept under the rug that this long-time observer of the Mississippi Legislature has not seen before. In the face of a formidable array of dissenters across the back rows of the House chamber, Ford struggled to keep the House from going over the brink of chaos during several hectic, long-drawn-out debates. By the end of the session, Ford was firmly in control.

Numbering about 20 to 25, the opposition usually rallied around veteran Rep. H.L. Sonny Merideth of Greenville, once the top lieutenant in the Buddie Newman Old Guard. In its ranks were mainly remnants of those who had opposed the 1987 rules changes which brought Ford and his reformers to power.

But several who joined the opposition were formerly in the ranks of the reform movement during the last four years. They felt they had been ostracized because they backed Rep. Ed Perry of Oxford rather than Ford during the pre-session speakership struggle.

Significantly, Perry did not allow himself to be drawn into the ranks of the opposition to the Ford leadership. In fact, the well-liked Perry emerged as one of Ford's key allies on several key pieces of legislation, particularly the constitutional convention bill.

Initially many thought the easy-going Ford would have to constantly rely on his somewhat tougher speaker pro tempore, Rep. Cecil Simmons of Maben, for support to bail him out of tight situations.

As the 125-day session moved on, some believed that the once-close team of Ford and Simmons was no longer close. While it was true that Ford began to call on Simmons less for relief in the heavy going, the warm relationship between the two has not diminished.

Simmons, who was Ford's campaign manager for the speakership, and was his closest adviser in making committee assignments, says "we're still close, although it may not appear as visible."

"Tim did a super job during the session. I think the state has a lot to be proud of," said Simmons, the 16-year veteran lawmaker who had been given the rawest treatment by Newman four years ago for joining the "House 26" rules reformers.

Simmons said he was proud of the fact that under the new leadership, the House was able to get recorded votes on such long-avoided issues as a constitutional convention (for the first time in 31 years) and the county unit system, although they eventually failed to pass.

"Sometime the results may be the same, but I think the state is now in a better position to know how their leaders feel on these issues," he said.

Freshman Rep. Ayres Haxton of Natchez said for the newcomers in the House, "it was a stab in the dark for us to support Tim Ford for speaker because we didn't have a point of reference. But we are well satisfied with him."

Haxton said despite the unceasing efforts of the opposition to the new leadership to seize control of parliamentary situations, "we didn't have a rout on anything."

Another freshman, Rep. Diane Peranich of DeLisle, praised Ford for "allowing us to represent our constituencies and be a part of the process."

Ford, she said, "grew in the job every day. He kept his sense of humor, he was eminently fair and we all had access to him."

Haxton said despite the unceasing efforts of the opposition to the new leadership to seize control of parliamentary situations, "we didn't have a route on anything."

One revelation to her, Peranich said, was the positive support given Ford by Perry and Rep. Jim Simpson of Long Beach, former prominent members of the Newman Old Guard.

Ford, she said, "was taking a chance when he made them chairmen of key committees (Simpson, Education and Perry, Constitution) but their best qualities surfaced and they spared nothing as proponents of programs supported by the Speaker."

Patrol to enhance holiday enforcement

JACKSON—If you're traveling in the Magnolia State this Memorial Day weekend, chances are you'll see a Mississippi state trooper on patrol.

"We will have 108 additional men working the roads during this holiday period," said Colonel David Huggins, chief of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

"The 832 extra man-hours will augment our normal traffic enforcement force in an effort to keep our highways safe for traveling Mississippians and visitors," said Huggins.

The supplemental man-hours will be funded by a federal grant established to finance the 'call back' details.

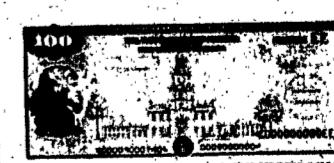

The Memorial Day observance was a deadly holiday in 1987 when nine people were killed in motor vehicle crashes. Six of the nine fatal crashes were one vehicle accidents.

"Also included in our special enforcement efforts will be the use of surveillance aircraft to spot speeding motorists," Huggins said.

Through this method air surveillance troopers use special lines and airplane silhouettes painted on state highways, in conjunction with stop watches, to determine a driver's speed. Information on speeders is then broadcast to ground enforcement units who cite the speeding drivers.

"The use of air surveillance units and extra manpower during the Memorial Day weekend will substantially increase our visibility, which always deters constant accessibility, such that 250 gallons per minute of continual water delivery for a period of two hours is provided at a fire site within five minutes of the arrival of the first fire apparatus.

Steiner said he saw an easily accessible alternative water supply in the form of the bayous, canals and the Jourdan River, which forms one of the subdistrict's boundaries. The other boundaries are Jourdan River Road, Washington Road back to the Bay St. Louis City limits and the beatline separating Beat Three and Beat Five.

"Just making a rough estimate, I'd guess that 96 percent of the property out there with buildings on it consists of waterfront lots. Basically, there's water available all over the place."

Beat Five Supervisor Mike Ladner, whose district includes the new fire subdistrict, said the Hancock County Board of Supervisors plans to recognize Steiner's work on the project at Ann Porter of Theodore, Ala., a former resident of Bay St. Louis tests the waters Saturday before she swims across Bay St. Louis to celebrate her 60th birthday. She completed the swim in one hour and 35 minutes. Twenty years ago her children, June and Ed, then 13 and 11, swam the bay in one hour and 35 minutes and one hour and 30 minutes, respectively. Porter said she was doing the swim for the glory of God. (Echo staff photo by D. C. Harvill)

Friday's board meeting, which begins at 9 a.m. in the upstairs boardroom of the courthouse. Steiner added that he feels having the subdistrict's creation placed in the supervisor's records will not only be "for posterity," but could be helpful to other areas in the county that might be eligible for a nine rating under the new regulations.

"I'll share what I learned about doing this with anyone," he said, explaining that the key is persistence.

He said that Marsh was the person who inspired his persistence.

"He provided the keep going, positive attitude aspect of it. Some people said it couldn't be done," Steiner explained.

The board of commissioners of the East Hancock Fire Protection District provided him with a resolution asking for creation of the subdistrict, and Dale provided the information on the procedure.

With the new subdistrict, residents can save an average of $250 per year on their fire insurance, depending on the size and type of buildings they own. He urges residents of the new subdistrict to contact their individual insurance agents about reducing the cost of their policies.

Ladner said the cost savings occurred just in time to save people some money before they are faced with the cost of a new sewerage system planned for Hancock County Wastewater District No. 1, which includes the new subdistrict.

Steiner said, "The beauty of the entire thing is that it didn't cost a thing to do. The fire department didn't have to buy one nozzle."

He said the few costs involved were very small, such as postage and telephone calls, and he chose to donate those to the effort.

"All I used was logic and two pages of regulations from the rating bureau."

Pearlington man hospitalized

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Pearlington man has been hospitalized and a woman has been charged with aggravated assault in connection with a Monday morning shooting.

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Glen Strong stated that Adolph "Butch" Collins, General Delivery, Pearlington, was shot once in the left chest area with a .22 caliber pistol.

Collins was originally taken to Shidell Memorial Hospital, then transferred to Charity Hospital in New Orleans, La.

Alzina Burns, 24, whose address is 106 General Delivery, Pearlington, was arrested about 5 a.m. on the aggravated assault charge and was released from the Hancock County Jail on $2,500 bond later that day, Strong added.

The investigator said the incident apparently took place in a residence.

Deputy Albert Dahl was in the investigation.

Dolphin HH-65A

Coast Guard helicopter to be featured

A Dolphin HH-65A from the Mobile, Ala. U.S. Coast Guard Office is participating in the Gulf Coast Air Show, May 28-29 at Stennis Airport.

The Coast Guard recently added 96 short range HH-65A helicopters to its fleet to replace the aging HH-52A Sikorsky Sea Guard. The twin-engine Dolphins operate up to 150 miles off shore and will fly comfortably at 150 knots for three hours.

Though normally stationed ashore, the Dolphins can be carried on board medium and high endurance Coast Guard cutters. They assist in the missions of search and rescue, enforcement of laws and treaties including drug interdiction, polar ice breaking, marine environmental protection including pollution control, and military readiness.

Helicopters stationed aboard ice breakers are the ship's eyes to find thinner and more navigable ice channels. They fly reconnaissance and air lift supplies to ships and to villages isolated by winter ice.

The HH-65A minimum equipment requirements exceed anything previously packaged into one helicopter weighing less than 10,000 pounds. HH-65As are made of corrosion-resistant, composite structure materials.

The shrouded tail rotor is unique to the Dolphin. Up-to-date navigation equipment is integrated into a complete flight management system.

Also a unique feature of the Dolphin is its computerized flight management system which integrates state-of-the-art communication and navigation equipment. This system provides automatic flight control.

At pilot direction, the system will bring the aircraft to a stable hover 50 feet above a selected object. This is an important safety feature in darkness or inclement weather. Selected search patterns can be flown automatically, freeing the pilot and copilot to concentrate on sighting the search target.

The Dolphin is manufactured by Aerospatiale Helicopter Corporation in Grand Prairie, Texas. Avco Lycoming builds the LTS 101-750B-2 turboshaft engines in Williamsport, New York and Rockwell International, Collins Avionics Group manufactures the electronics system in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

tion of composite structures.

State-of-the-art techniques permitted drastic reduction in the time required to build molds and wings for planes such as the Marvel.

The Raspet Laboratory has been active in flight testing and aerodynamics research for nearly 40 years.

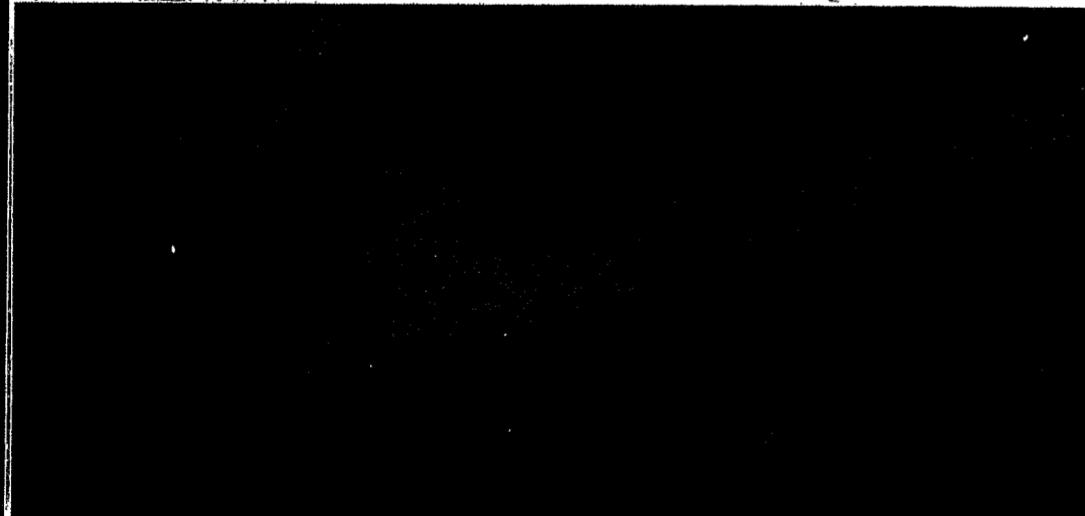

The laboratory's hangar and shops, located at Starkville Airport, make it the largest and best equipped university flight research facility in the country.

The Marvel II was built initially of fiberglass under U.S. Army sponsorship. However, the plane was recently modified extensively and improved using more modern composite materials such as Kevlar.

The Gulf Coast Air Show will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, Saturday and Sunday.

An aerial show featuring aerobatics and precision flying will begin daily at 2 p.m.

Food and refreshments will be available.

The Meridian group is one of eight military installations providing aircraft for this ninth annual air show.

Naval Air Station Meridian was commissioned in 1961 as an auxiliary station. Due to rapid growth, the station was upgraded to full air station in just seven years.

In the first year 293 students from the station were designated as naval aviators. Six years later the figure jumped to 847 as a result of the Vietnam War.

Completing the program in 1969 were 950 students, the largest number of aviators ever to be designated in a one-year period.

Navy and Marine Corps student naval aviators fly jets for the first time at Meridian, accumulating flight time in the T-2C 'Buckeye' and TA-4J 'Skyhawk.'

Upon completion of their training, students are designated naval aviators by the Chief of Naval Air Training.

An average of 130 aviators, including foreign officers, receive their Navy 'Wings of Gold' here each year.

The 926th Tactical Fighter Group, Naval Air Station New Orleans, is participating in the Gulf Coast Air Show. The air show will be May 28-29 at Stennis Airport.

It is a U.S. Air Force Reserve organization of more than 1,000 personnel training for worldwide deployment in support of U.S. policies.

Pilots assigned to the group fly a A-10 Thunderbolt II fighter aircraft. The A-10, manufactured by the Fairchild-Republic Company, is the first Air Force aircraft designed specifically for close air support of ground forces. Armed with a 30mm anti-tank cannon, the A-10 also carries other types of munitions.

Members of the 926th TFG come from all over Louisiana and neighboring states, filling a wide variety of reserve and civil service positions. The group is completely self-supporting with not only pilots and mechanics assigned, but also cooks, clerks, plumbers and security police. Through payroll and purchasing, the group contributes more than $9 million annually to the economy of Southeast Louisiana.

Naval Air Station New Orleans, also known as Alvin Callender Field, is located in Belle Chasse, La., on the west bank of the Mississippi River about 10 miles southeast of the famous French Quarter. The original air field came into being through a land grant to.

The 926th TFG is one of five components located at Naval Air Station New Orleans. Other components include Louisiana Air National Guard, Naval Air Reserve, Marine Air Reserve, and a Coast Guard active-duty helicopter unit. In addition, the air support branch of the U.S. Customs Service and a Civil Air Patrol unit are also located on station.

The first Air Force Reserve unit at Naval Air Station New Orleans was the 357th Troop Carrier Squadron, which moved from Donaldson Air Force Base, S.C., in March 1958, and immediately converted from the C-46 transport aircraft to the C-119 Flying Boxcar.

In August 1980, the unit was assigned to fighter aircraft and a new combat designation. Fighter Group with the group ready status assigned.

Few airplanes in this country are more familiar to military pilots than the T-6. In addition to training our own Air Force, Navy, and Marine pilots in precision flying, the T-6 has been used in the Air Forces of a majority of the United Nations.

More than 15,000 of the T-6 built, and most of them are still in active service.

Today, the T-6 is still on the forefront of training pilots to defend America with flight still teaching men throughout the world to fly a military

Hearing...

There is a lot of bad information going around about the city's new open container/glass containers ordinance, and the record needs to be set straight. The ordinance does not apply to the beach or seawall, and it specifically allows drinking at organized activities such as softball tournaments. It also provides for public events such as Mardi Gras and the Beachfront Festival to allow drinking.

The ordinance does prohibit alcohol in open containers and alcohol consumption on the streets, municipal parks, and public parking lots. It also prohibits glass containers in these areas. Glass containers were already prohibited on the beach before this ordinance was passed.

"News stories in the Sun-Herald and The Sea Coast Echo exaggerated what the ordinance does. The Sun-Herald printed a correction, but The Sea Coast Echo incorrectly reported that the ordinance applies to the beach. The word 'beach' isn't mentioned anywhere in the ordinance."

"The ordinance is an important public safety measure. It was passed in response to a number of situations where uncontrolled drinking on the streets turned into violence."

"Also the city has been receiving complaints from residents, the housing authority, and parents of young children playing in our parks. Many more children are now using our parks since the new playground equipment was installed."

"The city feels that these kids should be able to enjoy the parks without nearby drinking going on."

"Because there is so much controversy and misunderstanding, the council will hold a public hearing on the matter during its June 7 meeting. We need an ordinance that allows social drinking but protects public safety. I hope we can get some public input to improve the situation."

"The ordinance passed (Ordinance No. 320) was patterned after similar law in nearby cities. Long Beach has enforced such an ordinance for several years, and New Orleans has a prohibition on glass containers in the streets."

Following is the full text of the amendment to Section 17 of the Bay St. Louis City Code passed by the council at a regular meeting Tuesday, May 17:

ORDINANCE
NO. 320

An Ordinance to prohibit the consumption of alcoholic beverages in public places, to prohibit the possession of open containers of alcoholic beverages in public places, and to provide for related penalties.

Be it ordained by the governing authorities of the City of Bay St. Louis, MS, as follows:

PART 1. Chapter 17 of the Code of Ordinances is hereby amended by the addition of the following new section:

SECTION 17-21. Consumption or Possession of Alcoholic Beverages and Glass Containers in Certain Public Places.

a) It shall be unlawful to consume or possess in an open container any alcoholic beverage while on any public street, outdoor municipal public facility, any parking lot intended for public use and normally used by the public, or any public park unless alcoholic beverages are being sold or provided at such park in connection with organized activities sanctioned by the City.

Consuming or possessing any alcoholic beverage in these circumstances shall be unlawful, regardless of whether the person involved is in a vehicle or is present as a pedestrian. Possession of an open container while in the places prohibited above shall constitute prima facie evidence of a violation of this ordinance.

b) It shall be unlawful to possess any glass container, regardless of its contents, while on any street or right-of-way, outdoor municipal public facility, any parking lot intended for public use and normally used by the public, or any public park, unless the container is closed, is in transit from its place of purchase to a residence or business, and is packaged in a bag, box, or similar wrapping.

This prohibition shall apply whether the person involved is in a vehicle or is present as a pedestrian.

c) Acknowledging the benefits that accrue from bona fide public events held from time to time in public places, and that the possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages at such events is a customary practice which does not threaten public health and safety when adequate security provisions are made, the Mayor is hereby authorized to suspend the enforcement of Section 17-21(a), provided the following conditions are met:

1. The event is properly authorized by the City under applicable statutes and ordinances.

2. Open container: any container, whether of paper products, plastic, metal, glass, or ceramic, which is not completely enclosed and sealed with its original packaging by the brewer or brewery, distiller or distillery, manufacturer, bottler, or canner.

3. Public street: any road, street, alley, way, sidewalk, or right-of-way used by the public.

PART 2: The provisions of this ordinance are hereby declared to be severable. If any part of this ordinance is declared to be invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions, or the application thereof.

PART 3: All ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Biloxi 5K run scheduled saturday

The 3rd annual Gulf Coast Mind Over Matter 5K Run is scheduled for Saturday, May 28.

Co-sponsored by The Counseling Center and Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic, and hosted by the Gulf Coast Running Club, the run will begin at 8 a.m. at The Counseling Center—Building G, in the Petit Bois Specialty Center (across from the French Riviera Spa) in Biloxi, just off Edgewater Gulf Drive.

Unique Brass Crab Trophies will go to the first overall male and female masters, first male and female grandmasters as well as the top three male and female winners in 10 divisions.

All pre-registered runners will receive a free T-shirt the day of the race.

All participants in the one mile Funwalk will receive ribbons, and special awards will go to the first overall male and female winners and 1st place male and female winners in 15 divisions.

Pre-registration fee is $7 for non-Gulf Coast Running Club members and $6 for Gulf Coast Running Club members if received by May 21.

Late fee is $8 and Fun-Walk registration is $5. All competitors are invited to a complimentary pre-race social and spaghetti supper held at the Biloxi Beach Hotel, Friday night, May 27 beginning at 7 p.m.

Four guest speakers will be on hand to discuss training techniques, women and running, sports medicine and the psychological affects of exercise. Course maps will also be available.

Call The Counseling Center at 388-7998 for information on team competitions or other questions.

Kozak places second in Little Dixie Bass Tourney on Jourdan

From a field of 18 fishermen, Charles Noble of Laurel has won Little Dixie Bass Association's second qualifying tournament, held on the Jordan River near Waveland on April 23.

Noble, took the commanding lead for Angler of the Year, cranking in 6 bass with a catch weight of 7 pounds, 6 ounces.

Noble also sweetened his victory by winning the Lunker Pot, reeling in a 2-pound, 6-ounce bass.

"As the weather's gotten better, the fishing's gotten better," said Noble. "The competition's been tough, but as long as the fish cooperate, I intend to keep the lead."

Other winners included Ron Kozak of Waveland, a new member of Little Dixie, and Jude Tisdale of Hattiesburg.

Kozak came in second, catching 5 bass with a total weight of 7 pounds, 4 ounces.

Tisdale came in third, cranking in seven bass with a catch weight of 5 pounds, 8 ounces.

The victories of Noble, Kozak and Tisdale secured their positions at the top of the roster in the competition for Angler of the Year.

Currently, the top ten contenders are:

First-place, Charles Noble, 9 pounds, 6 ounces; second place, Jude Tisdale, 7 pounds, 5 1/2 ounces; third place, Ron Kozak, 7 pounds, 4 ounces; fourth place, Chuck Noble, also of Laurel, 7 pounds, 1 ounce; fifth place, Kenneth Murphy of Tylertown, 6 pounds, 12 ounces; sixth place, David Staples of Laurel, 4 pounds, 15 ounces; seventh place, Bill Smith of Ocean Springs, 4 pounds, 9 ounces; eighth place, Donald Walters of Laurel, 4 pounds, 7 ounces; ninth place, Carl Duverway of Ocean Springs, 3 pounds, 12 ounces; and tenth place, Emery Burch of Hattiesburg, 3 pounds, 4 ounces.

Little Dixie Bass Association is a mini-circuit competition, featuring five one-day tournaments throughout southern Mississippi and one in Alabama. The competition is based on pounds and ounces with the top 20 anglers of the 1988 season advancing to the Little Dixie National Tournament to be held on Oct. 29 and 30.

Ray Roberts, Little Dixie Association director, said response to the first two qualifying tournaments has been very positive. Mississippi fishermen have shown they're ready for local tournament fishing," said Roberts. "We're adding new members to Little Dixie's roster every week and interest in the remaining tournaments is steadily growing.

Membership in Little Dixie Bass Association is $20 a year. Fees include a cap with the association, logo, T-shirt, assortment of line, and a subscription to the association's newsletter, Strike Zone.

The third Little Dixie qualifying tournament will take place on the Tombigbee River near Coffeeville, Ala., on Saturday, May 21.

For information on registration for the May 21 tournament or any remaining tournaments or Little Dixie membership, call Ray Roberts at (601) 449-2694.

Celebrating Fitness Month

May is National Fitness and Sports Month, a coast-to-coast celebration of fitness jointly sponsored by the President's Council and various private sector agencies, organizations and corporations. Launched in 1983, and supported by the President and the Congress, this annual campaign calls attention to the many local programs that provide opportunities for people of all ages to get in shape.

Under the theme "Shape Up America," business and industry, government, schools and recreation centers highlight their many programs and join forces to focus on the many benefits of regular exercise and sport participation. Many people take this time to re-evaluate their fitness commitment or begin anew, joining the millions of Americans who have made exercise a vital part of their lifestyle.

As you reflect on your fitness program this May, I encourage you to think about ways to invigorate and revitalize your program, setting realistic goals that you will be able to reach and you will enjoy reaching.

First, take a good look at your personal fitness plan. Are you achieving the results you want? If it's to trim down, are you seeing changes? If it's to compete, are you improving? And, most important, are you enjoying your workouts?

Set at least one new goal for yourself and write it down. You might consider trying a new activity, adding one more day to your weekly program, or taking part in a Fitness Month event. Popular activities during this month are fitness fairs, fun runs and walks, seminars and special lectures.

If you are satisfied with your own personal plan, celebrate Fitness Month by setting a goal or taking an action that will help another person with their exercise program. Maybe it's a good time to join a family member for an evening walk, or encourage your friend to join your exercise class. "Each one, reach one" is a motto that can be acted upon this May.

Setting an example is one of the strongest motivational tools, and by acting out your commitment to exercise you've already set the pace for being a positive role model for others. Fitness Month is an ideal time to demonstrate your dedication by volunteering to help conduct an event in your community. The President's Council offers a brochure designed to help you organize and carry out special events.

The U.S. Public Health Service has set as one of its health goals for the American public that by the year 1990, 60 percent of adults will exercise regularly. We are still far from that goal, although each year more and more people make exercise a regular habit. This goes for young and old, as it is just as important for boys and girls to be physically active as it is for their parents.

Make 1988 Fitness Month count, and join the President's Council as part of this national celebration.

Innovation fights litter

It's always refreshing when a major manufacturer develops or implements the usage of materials which are beneficial to our environment. In fact, with headlines boasting of chemical spills in the Rhine River and oil spills in our oceans, any innovation in reducing pollution is a news maker.

OMC Parts & Accessories has begun packaging six-packs of its Evinrude and Johnson outboard lubricant with photodegradable plastic loop carriers. The new carriers, which replace regular plastic loop retainers, gradually break down when exposed to sunlight.

"Our new six-pack carriers virtually dissolve into dust after three to six months of exposure to sunlight," said Jim Kedley, marketing director of OMC Parts & Accessories.

Ultra-violet energy from sunlight breaks down the plastic material's complex long-chain molecules into shorter chains. As the material's molecular chains are broken, the action of wind and rain causes the carrier to crumble into polyethylene dust. This breakdown process does not result in any toxic or harmful by-products or inhibit normal degradation in a landfill, states a spokesman for the manufacturer, Hi-Cone of Itasca, Ill.

The amount of time required for the plastic carrier to degrade varies from one end of the country to the other and also one season to another, depending upon the amount and intensity of exposure to sunlight. The plastic used in the carriers becomes brittle and weak after as little as 30 days of average exposure.

"The use of these carriers in packaging Johnson and Evinrude lubricant does not mean that boaters should simply throw the empty piece of plastic on the ground or into the water," said Kedley. "We still encourage everyone to dispose of these rings in refuse containers. But, we do realize that some carriers will always end up loose in the environment, blown off boat decks or carelessly discarded. With our new photodegradable material, these loose carriers won't be littering the environment for years."

strength is that it gives the beginner or inexperienced fisherman good starting information to start with when he looks into his tacklebox and he's got 20 different colors, that here's something that's going to put him on the right track by just dropping a frog in the water.

Shrimping workshop scheduled

Mississippi Sea Grant Advisory Service in conjunction with the Jackson County Office of Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service will conduct a Recreational Shrimping Workshop on Monday, June 6 beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be held at the National Marine Fisheries Service, Pascagoula Laboratory in Pascagoula.

The program is free and will cover shrimp biology, on-board handling, and shrimp trawl design and performance. For more information call 388-4710 in Biloxi or 769-3047 in Pascagoula.

the running of the 114th Kentucky Derby.

"Merry" describes the mood of everyone enjoying Bud Freeman's famous mint juleps, and, as usual, the delectable dishes prepared by the ladies. Social chairperson Nina Cotton's decorations, from the bridles at the entrance to the roses, and cake (adorned with a horse, of course), helped everyone forget they were watching the race on television instead of at Churchill Downs.

Prior to "And they're off...", Linn (Tiger) Pereira entertained the race-goers with organ music for dancing or sitting/sipping/listening. After the hoopla of the big winners (Mike and Elsie Philpott, Maelys Swartzendruber, and Norman Shuback), and the groans of the losers, a brief business meeting was held.

The usual Kentucky Derby door prizes were given out, and an auction was held for 1 gallon of Bud's Mint Juleps—adding $23 to the $67 contributions collected at the door for the Sea Breeze Lanai addition at the Ship's Store. Ground breaking, by the way, was this past week, with our own construction engineer, Ed Snow, in charge.

Also, in addition to the generous contribution of the Diamondhead Property Owner's association, the Boaters Building Fund was added to by the contribution of $56 from Jean Keen and the Diamondhead Garden Club Sale, and $175 from Cecil Ballard and Gladys McCook's Bake Sale.

Shabazz receives President's Award at St. Stanislaus

Ya-Sin Shabazz, son of Mrs. Shakira Shabazz of Bay St. Louis, received the President's Award, the highest honor given to a graduating senior at St. Stanislaus.

This award was presented at the commencement exercises of the 134th graduating class May 21 at Our Lady of the Gulf Church in Bay St. Louis.

Brother Paul Montero, principal, conferred the diplomas upon the 78 members of the graduating class.

He also gave commemorative diplomas to the members of the Golden Jubilee Class of 1938 and to three members of the Class of 1923.

Brother Paul Montero presented these awards to the following graduates:

David Bast, Valedictorian

Award; Stephen Cuevas,

American Legion Award; William Stevenson, The Conduct Award (resident student); Scott Pfaff and Joe Sellers, The Character Award (resident students); Leonard Kergosian, The St. Stanislaus Alumni Association Award; Joseph Gex II, Character Cup for a Day Student; John Gross, Character Cup for a Resident Student; and Ya-Sin Shabazz, President's Award.

Award; Ya-Sin Shabazz, Salutatorian Award; David Bast, Excellence in English, Excellence in Mathematics, and Jeanne Simon Awards; Albert Bolian, Excellence in Social Studies; Michael Vegas, Excellence in Science and Scott Pfaff, Excellence in Business.

Also, Joseph Lee III, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce

Summer Food Program

The Hancock County School District is sponsoring a Summer Food program for youth.

Program sites will be Charles B. Murphy Elementary located in the Pearlington Community, Gulfview Elementary located on Lower Bay Road, and Hancock North Central Campus located on Cuevas Town Road.

The Summer Food Program makes free meals available to all children ages 1-18.

People over 18 years old who (1) are determined to be mentally or physically handicapped by a State or local agency and (2) participate in a public or private nonprofit school program for the handicapped during the school year, are eligible to receive Summer Food Program benefits.

The Summer Food Program was established to ensure that during school vacation, children would be able to receive the same high quality meals provided during the school year by the National School Lunch Program.

The Summer Food program will begin on June 6 and close on July 29. Lunch hour is 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

"We are in our first year of sponsoring the Summer Food program which is projected to provide 12,000 meals during the two month period of operation," said Dr. Marvin Randolph, Superintendent.

For information, write or call Randolph at Rt. 4, Box 988-H, Bay St. Louis MS 39520 (601) 467-4466.

RESTON—Clearly parents and educators should hold high expectations for all students entering the schoolhouse. But setting those high expectations is not the only key to excellence in education. In fact, without other steps, education will not succeed even with high standards.

That's the belief of Scott Thomson, executive director, National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Earlier this school year Education Secretary William Bennett issued a report James Madison High School, outlining what he believed should be offered in high schools, said Thomson. "One of Bennett's clear calls was for higher expectations. For that he should be congratulated.

When guidance counselors, teachers, principals, and parents set lower goals for some students—for whatever reason—we cheat them of opportunities for success as adults. This should be the message that we all take from the pages of James Madison High School. Schools should teach a common core of learning."

However, Thomson cautions that we cannot simply insist that all students take the same category of classes and expect they will succeed.

"When youngsters arrive at the high school doorstep, they bring all kinds of baggage," Thomson indicated. "Some have excellent multiplication tables; others still do not know their multiplication tables. Some have already read many of the classics; others struggle reading comic books. Some are ready to learn; others are more concerned with helping to hold their family together."

"We cannot expect that all students are ready to take algebra, geometry, trigonometry and calculus. Not all are. We should emphasize to most young people to work hard, and to work hard for something. Not all can do that."

a thoughtful report explaining the importance of high school for students into courses where they have no chance to succeed. We will lose them. The drop-out rate will rise."

Thomson also urged that educators, parents and the community must help students understand the importance of education.

It would be short-sighted to believe that by simply adding new courses, or requiring that students take them, achievement will increase. Students need to be motivated to achieve, to accept the tough challenges, to strive to learn. This requires a society with a commitment, including the active interest of parents, the personal recognition of teachers, a lessened emphasis on money and more on what occurs in the classroom, and in the workplace, and in the world beyond the classroom.

Bay High names class leaders

Bay Senior High valedictorian and salutatorian are Kim M. Krankey and Chad E. LaFontaine, respectively.

Krankey is the daughter of Marvin and Aimee Krankey. She is a three-year member of the Student Council, president her senior year and vice-president her junior year; a two-year member of the National Honor Society, treasurer her senior year; a two-year member of the coed Y Club; a three-year member of the Yearbook Staff; editor her senior year and co-editor her junior year; and a four-year member of the Varsity Volleyball Team.

As a senior Krankey was chosen Miss Bay High, Most Likely to Succeed, Most Likely to be Missed, and Most Beautiful by her fellow classmates.

She was also selected as Student of the Month for the month of October.

She was chosen for an Air Force ROTC scholarship, Mississippi State University leadership scholarship, USM valedictorian scholarship, and USM valedictorian scholarship.

As a sophomore Krankey was selected class president and Student of the Month for April. As a freshman she was chosen as Class Favorite.

After graduation she plans to attend Mississippi State University and will major in physics and pre-med.

LaFontaine is the son of Ronald and Sylvia LaFontaine.

He was involved in many activities in his four years at Bay Senior High and recently received several honors at the athletic banquet.

He is a four-year member of the Varsity Football Team, serving as this year's quarterback; a three-year member of the baseball team and a two-year member of the National Honor Society.

He was chosen Mr. Bay High, Most Dependable and Most Likely to Succeed by his classmates. He was also named Star Student.

Standardized 'excellence' may hike drop-out rate

WHEREAS, Jerry West, 18, of Waveland, special education student at Hancock North Central High School "...overcame adversity through hard work to achieve the coveted badge of Eagle Scout in Boy Scout Troop 210 sponsored by the Waveland Fire Department," the Mississippi Legislature through Concurrent House Resolution No. 122 commended West for his achievement. Participating in a presentation ceremony in the State Capitol in Jackson are, from left, West; Representative J. P. Comprett of Bay St. Louis; Representative Curtis Holston of Poplarville and Representative Tim Ford of Tupelo, speaker of the house.

St. Ann Church News

By Virginia Thomas

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Lambert Stack, ST.

"May He support us all the day long, till the shades lengthen and the evening comes, and the busy world is hushed and the fever of life is over and our work is done."

"Then in His mercy may He give us a safe lodging and a holy rest and peace at last."

—Cardinal Newman

Sixteen of our young children of St. Ann-St. John Parish received their First Holy Communion during the 9:30 a.m. Mass at St. Ann Church Sunday, May 16.

Those receiving Our Blessed

Lord for the first time were Christy Marie Ladner, Amber Marie Vidal, Micheline H. LaFontaine, Felicia Marie Arnold, Nikoline Beth Rasmussen, Chad Joseph Davis, Christopher Shane Thompson, Jean Paul Hust, Patrick Williams, Raymond Gene Hoover, Luke Anthony Bates, Linwood Leroy Rutherford III, Joshua Adam Ellis, Brad Anthony Saucier, Cory Lance James and Stephen Frechou.

Immediately following Mass, in honor of our Bleesed Virgin Mother Mary on Mother's Day, there was the crowning of the Blessed Virgin Mary by Tynell Warden, a CCD student.

Father Stack would like to express his thanks and appreciation to Delores Johnson, Debbie McArdle and Cynthia Ladner for their generosity and faithfulness conducting our CCD classes each Saturday throughout the year.

Anyone interested in helping with St. Ann-St. John Softball Tournament Saturday and Sunday, June 11 and 12 at Jimmy Ladner's Field in Ansley and has not yet signed up, please contact Pat Corbell at 457-5294 or Mabel Brown at 467-7764. Lots of help is needed to make this year's tournament as successful as it has been in the past.

Pat is also asking anyone who has chances books out to please make returns on filled books as soon as possible.

Catron takes Coast DAR Citizen Award

Coast Episcopal High School has announced the selection of senior Kristin Lynn Catron, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Alan Catron of Long Beach as the 1987-88 recipient of the Gulf Coast Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen Award.

The Good Citizen Award is presented to students with high academic averages who show qualities of dependability, service, leadership, patriotism, and understanding.

Catron is treasurer of the National Honor Society, and a member of Mu Alpha Theta, the Society of Distinguished American High School Students, and Who's Who Among American High School Students. She is president of the Spanish Club and secretary of the senior class.

KRISTIN CATRON

REGISTRATION UNDERWAY—Karen Peoples, children's services coordinator for the Hancock County Library System, puts the finishing touches on a bulletin board announcing the Summer Library Program at all branches of the library system. Pre-registration for the programs will continue through June 3. Each child will receive a package containing a reading record, bookmark and schedule of activities. The theme of this year's program is 'Unlock the Mystery at the Library.' Activities will begin with a balloon release at each library the week of June 7. Activities will continue weekly until July 14. For more information contact the nearest library: City-County at 467-5282; Kiln at 255-1724; or Waveland at 467-9240.

In sports, Kristin played basketball, softball, and was a Raider cheerleader.

After graduation, Catron plans to attend Michigan State University and major in business administration.

time each day to spend enjoying and sharing with family members. The time can be brief, but it should be uninterrupted by outside influences, and it should concentrate on the unique interests of each person in a warm, loving and non-judgmental environment.

After taking stock of the present use of time, decide how you would like to spend time in the future. Remember to budget time for job, home and leisure. If you need to adjust your work load, do it by sharing work, changing standards and using other resources.

There are a variety of ways to divide household work.

In the resource method, the people who have the resources (skills, strength, and time) do the tasks that require those resources. The mathematics whiz handles household accounts. The stronger person stacks wood for the fireplace. Be aware that the resource method perpetuates some sex-role stereotypes (he does yard work, she cleans the house), and it may deprive some family members of the chance to learn household maintenance skills.

In the rotating chores method household tasks are identified and a routine for rotating chores is developed.

For example, this week father cooks, mother does the laundry, the son cleans and the daughter mows the lawn. Next week family members rotate the chores. Everyone gets to all the tasks and learns necessary household skills. It takes time to develop some skills, and parents have to invest time teaching the various skills not only to the children but to each other. Also, all family members must be willing to accept the standard of the person performing the chore.

The each-person-for-himself method is often used in families whose after-school and evening activities make it hard to coordinate schedules. In this method, each person is responsible for his/her own meals, laundry, and cleanup. Some economy is lost since it takes less energy to cook four hamburgers at once than one at a time, and some general tasks still need attention such as cleaning and living room and yard work.

In the substitute method, one resource—money, is substituted for another, time. For example, you could eat out and hire a person to clean and do yard work. You would then have more free time for leisure activities. Most families use a combination of methods to divide household chores.

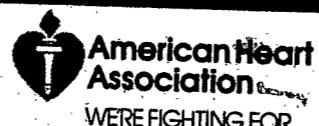

Superwoman and superman are imaginary beings. Real people don't simultaneously have exciting full-time jobs, perfect marriages, well-adjusted children, sparkling houses and provide strong community leadership. If you have two or three of these attributes sometimes, then congratulate yourself. And remember that once the children reach age 12 or so their care demands on your time will decrease dramatically.

Habits die hard. Just as it's hard to change eating and spending patterns, it's hard to change the way time is used. If you want to use your time effectively, it may be necessary to change some habits.

For employed parents, the ultimate goals of time management are an enjoyable, healthy family life and a productive work life. Don't get so efficient at 'getting things done' that you forget that quality of life depends largely on how much we enjoy what we do, alone and as a family.

We need you.

Consumer Update

By Janet K. Lutkens
Consumer
Management Center

Although the number of teens in the U.S. is radically decreasing, the amount of money they are spending is dramatically increasing.

A Teenage Research Unlimited Media/Market Study estimates that teens will spend approximately $78 billion this year, $7.5 billion more than in 1986.

With increased spending and today's emphasis on affluence and easy credit, it is becoming increasingly important to help them develop the skill of effective money management.

To further support this, a recent Southwest Texas State University study has provided the following information on bankruptcy and the danger of poor financial preparation:

1. Bankruptcy petitioners usually have not kept financial records.
2. The majority of the bankrupt petitioners hold white collar jobs.
3. The typical bankruptcy petitioner has a median income of $18,500 from his or her occupation.
4. The debtor has an average of 29 debts.
5. The average bankrupt person owes four times his average salary.

If your child's school does not presently have a financial program, encourage your school officials to implement a program. For more information and free materials on the high school financial planning program available from the College for Financial Planning, contact the Consumer Money Management Center at 388-4710.

Pass High names Star student, teacher

The Mississippi Economic Council has announced that Jeffery W. Glenn has been selected as the Star Student at Pass Christian High School.

Star Students are selected on the basis of academic excellence. American College Test scores and scholastic averages are considered.

The Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition (Star) Program encourages and promotes academic achievement among Mississippi's high school seniors, explained William B. Alexander of Cleveland, chairman of MEC's Council on Education.

"Top scholars are being designated as Star Students in over 300 participating schools in Mississippi. From these students, the top 20 students in the state are selected, and the Council awards scholarships to

High school seniors and activities include Algebra Award, Superintendent's Honor Roll, 9th, 10th, 12th, Principal's Honor Roll, Quiz Bowl, Beta Club, Science Club, French Club, Century III all '20 students and their teachers.

Funds for these scholarships are provided by the Phil Hardin Foundation of Meridian.

Each star Student is asked to designate a Star teacher, a teacher who has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement.

Andrew Lagarde was designated Star Teacher.

Both the student and the teacher will receive certificates from the council, in addition to being eligible for competition for scholarship awards.

Glenn, 18, is son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Glenn of Gulfport.

USM to host Girls' State Convention June 5-10

HATTIESBURG—More than 400 high school girls will gather at the University of Southern Mississippi campus June 5-10 to form the fictitious state of "Magnolia."

Delegates, girls entering their senior year in high school, are nominated by American Legion Auxiliaries throughout the state. They will be participating in the 41st annual Mississippi Girls' State Convention, hosted by USM for the second straight year.

The goal of the program is to teach the delegates more about politics as they make nominations, hold campaign rallies, organize political platforms and elect state and local officials, according to Phyllis Moran of Bay St. Louis, who serves as chair of the Girls State Committee and president of the sponsoring American Legion Auxiliary.

Formerly held at Hinds Junior College in Raymond, the program was moved to USM in 1987 because of a need for larger facilities to handle an increasing number of participants.

The delegates will nominate and elect girls for state and local offices such as a governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, senators and representatives for the 10 cities and five counties of "Magnolia." Two girls selected as Girl Nation senators will travel to Washington, D.C., in July for the national program.

Highlights of the week-long session at USM will include addresses by state and local officials, including Secretary of State Dick Molpus, Circuit Court Judge Richard McKenzie and Louisa Dixon, head of the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

The convention is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, with assistance from the USM Division of Lifelong Learning.
